SUMMARY SHEET

Letter from Bernard Collorafi to McDonald's (Aix-en-Provence) · 17 January 1997

Overview: letter sent by Bernard Collorafi, from Antibes, to Guy Dupuy, of McDonald's France (BP 309, Aix-en-Provence), concerning the forecast turnover for 1997 for his restaurants.

Key points

Following several conversations, Bernard Collorafi asks his correspondent to inform him of the action plan envisaged for his two restaurants to reach the targets set during the financial presentations, namely:

- shopping centre restaurant: 19 million francs;
- “drive-through” restaurant: 20 million francs.

He states that he is enclosing the turnover forecasts detailed month by month, on the basis of 19 and 20 MF, and gives assurance that his teams and he himself will do everything possible to achieve these targets. The tone remains cordial (“Dear Guy”).

Significance

This correspondence documents the commercial targets set by mutual agreement at the beginning of 1997 and the follow-up requested from McDonald's. It sheds light on the gap, invoked later in the dispute, between the projections announced at opening and the results actually achieved.
